Straightening of Shover and Third Turn Will Begin

Mrs. Frank Hearne Accepts City's 25-Foot Purchase Offer

WILL WIDEN TURN

WPA Project on No. 67 Obstruction Will Get Under Way at Once.

The last obstacle in the correcting of the dangerous "S" turn on Highway 67 at Third and Shover streets was believed removed Tuesday night when the city council voted unanimously to pay Mrs. Frank Hearne $250 for a warranty deed for 25 feet of property to be used as part of the highway.

A special committee composed of Charles Taylor, Dr. P. B. Carrigan and K. G. Hamilton reported that Mrs. Hearne would accept that figure, clearing the way for immediate construction work with the aid of WPA labor.

The council had already made satisfactory terms with Gulf Refining company for 25 feet of frontage on the southeast side of the curve.

The agreement with Mrs. Hearne will allow the city to proceed at once. A project calling for WPA labor has already been approved, officials said.

When completed, the roadway will be more than 50 feet wide. It will maintain its present roadbed, plus 25 feet on each side.

South Walnut Project

Arthur Erwin addressed the council Tuesday night on a proposed project calling for the opening and improving of South Walnut street from Third to 16th street.

Mr. Erwin urged that the street be extended to connect with 16th street, giving two routes to the high school building.

He pointed out crowded traffic conditions leading to and from the school, especially during football seasons.

Henry Yerger Dies Here at Age of 76

50 Years Head of Local Negro Schools, He Is Pneumonia Victim

Henry C. Yerger, 76, head of the negro schools in Hope for the past 50 years, died at his home, 303 South Hazel street, at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Five weeks ago for slipped to the floor at his home, sustaining a broken hip. Later pneumonia developed from which he failed to recover.

Last fall he celebrated his 50th anniversary as head of the negro schools of Hope. The celebration was attended by educators throughout Arkansas and several other states.

News of his death was received at The Star office as the newspaper prepared to go to press. No funeral arrangements had been made at that time.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

LETTER — Dear Wallace: Thank you.

The last several months I have imagined the people thought I was a cross between a public outlaw and a moral leper.

As a fellow country publisher you know what it means to be pitted against the field in a local option election—that "all alone" feeling.

But I never have thought that personal considerations, any more than money, should alter one whit the picture of our times that a truthful, courageous newspaper should attempt to give.

We used to think that the church and the police station were at opposite ends of the road. The good went to church, and the bad wound up at the police station. That's how you, Wallace, and I were brought up.

But about the time you and I got out of high school a certain minority of Americans decided that we would have a better government and a better people if the church and the police station, instead of being far apart, were brought together.

It has been a long time now—and the facts are history.

Government is nearly bankrupt—and the people, from whom all government under a republic must spring, are so morally bankrupt that they can think of no better solution for their troubles than to vote on them.

X X X

I never have aimed to discuss this local option business.

I have aimed to destroy it. Criminal law has so little to do with the personal life and habits of our people that to make a political issue of criminal law is ridiculous.

What is important, however, is the actual life and habits of the people. These are touched only by what the people learn—what they are actually "shown," not what they are compelled to do by come-opera police and village sheriffs, who are pretty much the same the world over.

And so I have always stayed close to the public schools and their tax problems. I went down the line for the sales tax for schools and charity, and eventual relief of the land taxation. It was a new and daring procedure for a country newspaper. Neither of our two county representatives nor our state senator felt that they dared follow me in the 1935 legislature.

But the sales tax is a just tax, and is worth-while if its proceeds are correctly administered.

But I would reverse my position on the sales tax quickly enough if it should be diverted—as some are now trying to divert it—away from the state to the county governments, to be used by them to chase bootleggers and moonshiners through politically "dry" country cow-pastures.

All this would be lost motion—a political square-dance with the taxpayers paying the fiddler.

X X X

It has been a long time, Wallace, since you and your brother Curtis, on the Camden News, and I on the El Dorado News, crusaded together for the prohibition law and against gambling.

I still retain my feeling toward gambling as the greatest of all social evils. Remember the old folk song about a mother's advice to her daughter—"Don't marry a gambling man!" I still feel hard and uncompromising toward gambling, and I ran the slot-machines out of my town a long time ago.

But on the whisky question I have modified my views, as millions of fellow Americans have modified theirs.

I feel that Mr. Rockefeller has expressed the soul of a great compromise in turning away from his original Anti Saloon League position to advocate a publicly-owned package store system.

It is a position acceptable to a Christian citizen. We shall recognize enough drinking citizens in order to acquire tax funds to control the unruly ones.

If we can't do that, then certainly we can't enforce prohibition—and I am through with prohibition.

The privately-owned package liquor stores are not as bad as the prohibitionists claim—but not as good as Mr. Rockefeller's state dispensary proposal.

I would like to see other newspaper proprietors around the state follow this idea and pledge their candidates for representative and senator in August to the state dispensary plan with safeguards to keep it out of political campaigns as much as possible, although liquor, legal or bootleg, is always in politics to a certain extent.

I am enclosing the "key" editorial in my Hempstead county campaign, outlining the state dispensary plan. If you are interested you may have the entire series of twelve articles for nothing. I copyrighted them only to keep them out of the hands of the liquor stores and newspapers that

Bruno to Die the Week of March 30

Second Reprieve Unlikely; Choice Confession, Death

Ultimatum to Be Put Up to Convicted Slayer in Prison Cell

HIS THIRD SENTENCE

State of New Jersey Once More Prepares for Bruno's Execution

TRENTON, N. J.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's electrocution was set Wednesday for the week of March 30.

It is the third time that an execution date has been set for the convicted murderer of the Lindbergh baby.

Virtually his only hope of further delay in execution lies in a second reprieve, and this is regarded as unlikely. Attorney General Wilentz held that the first reprieve by Governor Hoffman was illegal, and he said he would oppose another.

Ultimatum to Bruno

TRENTON, N. J.—Confess or die, was to be the ultimatum given to Bruno Richard Hauptmann Wednesday after he is re-sentenced to pay the death penalty for the murder of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

Samuel S. Leibowitz, Manhattan criminal lawyer, decided at midnight Tuesday to convey this message to Hauptmann. The new death warrant will be signed at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday by Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trechler, within five hours from the moment the sick jurist sets a new execution date from his bed chamber.

Hauptmann will face the most terrific ordeal since his conviction.

Governor's Edict

The ultimatum of death versus a confession is not Leibowitz's invention. It is a strict interpretation of the grim facts set forth by Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, who granted Bruno the 30-day reprieve which expired last Saturday.

The governor and Leibowitz both feel that the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby was accomplished with the aid of accomplices. But the new investigation has encountered many obstacles. They are convinced it is next to impossible to solve the crime before the new electrocution day arrives, unless Hauptmann throws new light on the crime of March 1, 1935.

Leibowitz hopes to be able to see Hauptmann alone Wednesday afternoon. But if the prisoner insists, the Manhattan attorney is willing to have either Lloyd Fisher, Hauptmann's chief lawyer, or Frederick Pope, Fisher's associate, accompany him to the death house. Both these lawyers have agreed on Leibowitz's main point—namely that every legal resource has been exhausted.

Government Quits in Face of Sunday's Radical Victory at Polls

MADRID, Spain—(Copyright Associated Press)—The Spanish government resigned Wednesday in the face of the apparent election victory by the radical parties.

The government of Premier Valledar had been in office since December 30.

The resignation, which removed from office all appointive administrative officials, was regarded as preparing the way for the establishment of a new government of a radical political complexion.

The deadline for purchasing tags is Thursday. Mr. Royerson said Wednesday that approximately 350 persons had obtained tags, leaving about 400 more to be issued.

Big Crowd Turns Out at Checkered

Cafe Holds "Open House" in New Location at Third and Main Streets

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Ramsey, proprietors of the Checkered cafe, were hosts to hundreds of visitors at an "open house" Wednesday marking the formal opening of their new location at Third and Main streets.

The cafe, completely remodeled and attractively decorated since its removal from the Division street location, was crowded all Wednesday morning.

Complimentary cigars and coffee were given all visitors, and there were several prizes in coffee-drinking and other contests.

Youngsters of the city responded to the pledge of free ice-cream, with a State Fair rush on the cafe during the noon hour.

Mercury at 21½ Here Wednesday

Some Relief From Continued Cold Is Forecast for Thursday

The coldest spell of Hempstead county's worst winter in years hung on Wednesday morning, the mercury at the Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station showing a low of 21½ degrees, against the record low of 8½ degrees Tuesday morning.

Ice continued to form in city streets at noon Wednesday.

The forecast is for snow Wednesday night, turning to rain Thursday; slightly warmer Wednesday night in the central section, and Thursday in the south and east portions.

Cold Reaches East

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Gas and fire perils Wednesday gave a cold-buffed nation new anxieties.

A section of the Utica (N. Y.) business district was closed by national guardsmen after gas explosions Tuesday, when a new blast Wednesday blew sewer covers 20 feet into the air.

Belleville and East St. Louis (Ill.) citizens kept their windows open, despite the bitter cold, to reduce the danger from similar gas leaks.

Four died and 64 became ill in two cities.

The Midwest sub-zero belt was warming up as the record-breaking cold moved east, engulfing all the Atlantic states except southern Florida.

"Wets" Nose Out "Drys" by 9 Votes in Hempstead Co.

Complete Unofficial County Returns Give Vote of 897 to 888

CANVASS ON FRIDAY

12 Absentee Ballots Reported—Only 5 Received by County Clerk

Complete unofficial returns from Hempstead county's 35 precincts gave the wet forces a 2-vote margin in the local option liquor election held Tuesday.

The vote stood: 897 to sustain the Thorn liquor act, to 888 for the dry forces.

Election commissioners said Wednesday that the official canvass would be made Friday. County Clerk Ray McDowell announced that 12 absentee ballots had been mailed, five of which had been returned. The absentee ballots will be counted Friday, Mr. McDowell said.

Attorney John Vesey, executive chairman of the dry forces, had no comment to make pending official canvass of the returns.

On the basis of unofficial returns Hempstead county became the first county in the state to sustain the package store law in a local option election.

The dry forces held a slight lead in the election on early returns. Then the wet forces went ahead, only to lose again as northern precincts of the county began to be heard from.

Last Three Boxes

Three boxes, Saratoga, Centerville and McNab, were the last to be heard from with the prohibitions holding a slight lead. Centerville reported 5 dry and 3 wet. Saratoga came in next with 17 dry and 10 wet.

McNab, the last to be heard from, reported with an impressive approval of the Thorn liquor act, voting 24 to 0 to sustain the package law, wiping out the small margin of the dry forces.

The four wards of Hope voted wet by a margin of 27. Counting Country Box five, which includes many citizens living just outside the city limits, the city tabulation gave the wet forces a 44-vote margin.

Hempstead county is the sixth Arkansas county to vote on the liquor question. The five previous local option counties all voted dry, most of them by large majorities in a relatively small total vote. Columbia county will vote on the issue next week.

The unofficial vote tabulated by The Star Tuesday night corresponded with one tabulated by Attorney John Vesey, executive chairman of the dry forces.

The Arrow and the Song

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight.
I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For who has sight so keen and strong
That it can follow the flight of a song?
Long, long afterward, in an oak
I found the arrow, still unbroken;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.—H. W. L. (By request.)

On Planting

The best time to plant spring oats is just as early as possible without taking too much risk from late freezes. Better results are usually obtained from planting in February in southern Arkansas which includes Hempstead county.

The outstanding varieties of oats for spring planting in Arkansas are Fulghum and Burt, according to information received from D. J. Burleson, Extension Agronomist, University of Arkansas, College of Agriculture, Kansas, is a strain of Fulghum grown in Kansas, and is suitable for spring planting.

Fulghum and Burt are earlier than the ordinary Red Rust Proof varieties, such as Applier, Ferguson and others. These later varieties may be spring planted, but the fact that they mature later causes a following crop of lespezea to get a later start.

A field of oats, either fall or spring, is an excellent place to plant lespezea. About 20 pounds of lespezea seed per acre, sown in late February or early March, will produce good grazing or a crop of hay after the oats are harvested. The seed is sown after the oats are up.

A liberal acreage of lespezea has the advantage that in case the crop is not needed for hay or for grazing, the crop may be plowed under for soil improvement.

Smut often does serious damage to both spring and fall oats. Fortunately, the smut may be easily controlled at little expense by labor by treating the seed oats before planting with a solution of formaldehyde or formalin. The spray method is an easy one to use in applying formalin.

Treatment of Oats for Smut
Dump the seed on a clean barn floor or canvas, or in a tight wagon box. Mix 1 pint of formaldehyde (37 percent by weight) with 1 pint of water and pour into a quart sprayer. This quart of solution will treat 50 bushels. If fewer bushels are to be treated, use a correspondingly smaller quantity of the solution.

Shovel the oats from one pile to another, spraying each shovelful. One stroke of the piston produces about the right amount of mist for a disshovelful of seed. A scoop-shovelful requires about four strokes.

After the oats are sprayed, shovel them into a pile and cover with blankets, canvas, or sacks that have been thoroughly sprayed with the solution to kill smut spores on them.

The pile should be covered at east five hours and may be left covered overnight. The oats may then be bagged and drilled. If sowing is delayed, or if it is planned to store the oats after treatment, the pile should be spread out and aired for a day. Treatment may be given at any time previous to sowing.

Caution
Formaldehyde vapor irritates the eyes, nose and throat. These effects may be reduced (1) by holding the sprayer close to the oats; (2) by working from the windward side of the treated pile, and (3) by treating the seed in a well-ventilated place.

25,000 More Acres in Feed Crops

In Hempstead County
Hempstead county increased its feed crop acreage by almost 20,000 acres between 1929 and 1934, according to the 1935 Federal Farm Census preliminary report. Leading in the increase in acreage was corn, followed by hay and sorghum for forage, and oats.

The acreage of corn for all purposes increased by almost 8,600 acres, with corn harvested for grain showing a gain of over 8,400 acres. The production, however, dropped from more than 475,000 bushels to less than 400,000.

Old Tunes Sung in "Ah Wilderness"

"Waltz Me Around Again Willie" One of Many at the Saenger

Time-honored tunes of the past, some so unknown today that it took considerable "digging" to find the music, come to their own once more on the talking screen.

They are the tunes popular from 1902 to 1906, and are used as incidental music in "Ah Wilderness" Eugene O'Neill's "Comedy of Recollection" with Wallace Berry and Lionel Barrymore, and coming to the Saenger Thursday and Friday.

In different episodes, such as the Fourth of July band concert, the scenes with a player piano, and others, the old tunes are played sung and whistled. Beery has one of them to whistle and warble.

"Under the Bamboo Tree," "Bella," "Waltz Me Around Again Willie," "Then You'll Remember Me," "Arrah Wannah" are among the old-timers used.

The oldest of all is, oddly enough, still popular today. The "Blue Danube Waltz" is used as the tune of a high school class song, sung by the school glee club.

Beery, Barrymore, Eric Linden, Cecilia Parker, Aline MacMahon, Spring Byington, Helen Flint, Frank Albertson, Charles Grapewin are among the players in the dramatic story of adolescent love.

600 bushels, because of the poor growing season of 1934.

Hay and sorghum for forage practically doubled in acreage. About 3,000 more tons of this crop was produced in 1934 than in 1929. Oats were grown on over 4,000 acres in 1934, compared with about 700 in 1929.

Oklahoma Pension Law Thrown Out

But Governor Marland Will Revive State Law Under New Terms

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—(AP)—The state supreme court Tuesday invalidated Oklahoma's $30-a-month old-age pension law.

In an eight-to-one decision, the court held that Gov. E. W. Marland had disobeyed the law when he called an election on the question before the sufficiency of initiative petitions had been determined. The opinion did not go into the question of the validity of the pension act itself.

Governor Marland announced in advance of the decision that the $30-a-month plan would not be revived should the court hold it invalid, but that a new pension measure would be sought.

The governor said the new law would provide a $15 monthly pension, to be matched by a $15 federal pension.

Black-Draught's Good Reputation

The confidence people have in Black-Draught, built up from satisfactory use so many years, is shown in its being handled on from one generation to another. It must be good to have such a strong following.

Here is a typical reference to Black-Draught by a satisfied user: "We have used Black-Draught for twenty years," writes Mrs. Fred Richardson, of Hartshorne, Okla. "My mother has used it for fifty years. It is the best medicine I know anything about. I take it for sour stomach and constipation, or when I feel sluggish and bad. Black-Draught is splendid to regulate the bowels, cleansing them of waste matter, ridding them of constipation. I expect to use it twenty-five more years if I live and it gives satisfaction as it has always given."

Smart Mode

THE ensemble looks perfectly stunning, whether made in tweed, lightweight wool or silk, with cotton or silk vest. The clever long points of the vest meet the skirt at a high point to achieve a most attractive effect. Patterns are sized 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 5 1/2 yards of 39-inch fabric, with 1 1/2 yards contrasting for the vest.

To secure a PATTERN and STEP-BY-STEP SEWING INSTRUCTIONS, fill out the coupon below, being sure to MENTION THE NAME OF THIS NEWS-PAPER.

THE SPRING AND SUMMER PATTERN BOOK, with a complete selection of late dress designs, now is ready. It's 15 cents when purchased separately. Or, if you want to order it with the pattern above, send in just an additional 10 cents with the coupon.
